The Baltimere Municipal Election.

This election, yesterday, resulted in the entire success of the Reform party The American, speaking of the manner in which it passed off and the result, says :- The order, quiet, and per-fect protection to voters of all parties which characterized the municipal election yesterday is a legitimate subject of congratulation for every good citizen, and one in which all should unite. no matter what were their expectations or wishes in regard to the result. The division of the wards into precincts, by which the accumulation of large crowds in the vicinity of the polls was avoided, and the closing of the taverns, thereby removing a powerful incentive to disorder, had much to do with this improved condition of affairs, but the result must in justice be mainly attributed to the efficient arrangements of the police and their excellent execution. So far as our own observation extended or we have been informed by others, ample protection was extended to both parties without interference with the proper rights of either. No serious disorder was attempted, but there was full assurance in the determined character and completeness of the preparations made at once to suppress any such purpose if it had been manifested. In passing through the wards the contrast between the present and the past was the general subject of approving remark, and the hope was entertained that the separation of the police from all party influence may be thoroughly preserved in ail future time. The experience of yesterday has done much to remove any force that were the contract of the preserved in ail future time. move any fears that were entertained on this score, and we congratulate the Board, as well as the Marshal and officers of Police, on the com-mendable manner in which they have encountered this first great test.

The triumph of the reform party is so thorough and complete as to have exceeded what the most ranguine could have anticipated. They elect the Mayor by an immense majority, carry all the wards, and nearly every precinct of each ward. Both branches of the City Council are a unit for reform, and the party will take, with the responsibilities of office, full control over municipal affairs. WASHINGTON NEWS AND GOSSIP.

A Posice Divorced FROM POLITICS. -The result of divorcing the police of Baltimore from politics is evident in the remarkable quiet and preservation of order that characterized the Baltimore municipal election of yesterday. With a partizan police in authority, it was, not long since worth a peaceable citizens life, almost, to attempt to. exercise the right of suffrage there. With a police in authority, pledged to abstain from directly or indirectly interfering with the election as political partizans, and to protect all the rights of every citizen seeking to vote, Baltimore has suddenly become the most peaceable and quiet city in the Union upon election day! What a les-on does this change teach us of the Federal Metropolis, wherein, at election times, life and the rights of the citizen are as unsafe as at any time in Baltimore. We do not doubt that our present police force, if realizing that their tenure of office depended (as all policemen's should) upon their good behavior, rather than on their services as political strikers before and on election days, would hold Washington on such an occasion as free from the rule of the "Rams," et al , as the police of Baltimore yesterday held that city entirely free from the rule of "Plugs," its lords and masters under their late police regime.

Significant .- Foster, though proclaiming himself a Douglasite, did worst, clearly, in what are known as the Douglas strongholds of Pennsylvania, on the day before yesterday. That is, in Allegany, Lancaster and Schuylkill, where what was a year or two ago the Democratic party, have almost entirely gone over to Douglas. In them, the Republican-Curtin's - gain was the greatest The fact proves one of two things. Either that, as Henry A. Wise so pithily expressed it, " Douglasism is but a short cut to abolitionism," or that wherever Mr. Douglas was able to exert a personal influence over his followers, he succeded in jaducing them to play into the hands of the Republican party in this election. His well-known purpose was to defeat the success of the attempted fusion; and wherever his cause was in the ascendancy in the party in Pennsylvania, there the Republican gains have been largest. It can hardly require such another election result, we fancy, to satisfy all at the South that he is laboring as earnestly to secure Lincoln's election by the people, as Horace Greeley himself. though sold at less prices than the descriptions

THE ALLEGED CHIRIQUI COAL MINE .- It may be recollected that a great effort was made during the last session of Congress to induce the Government to purchase an alleged coal region that had been found near Chiriqui, Central America, and to have an appropriation made of several hundred thousand dollars for this object. We have been informed by a competent geologist that there is no trace of coal measures in that region; that no carboniferous fossils have even been found there, and that the supposed coal mine is a tertiary deposit of lignite, of less value for fuel than many of the peat deposits in the New England States. The Chiriqui lignite is doubtless about such a deposit as those in Southern Texas, out of which specu. lators came near making immense sums before due scientific investigation demonstrated their utter lack of any commercial value whatever.

THE NORFOLK AND PRINCESS ANNESTAMPEDE. We have heard many idle reports on the subject of the slieged servile insurrection in Norfolk and Princess Anne counties, many of which were evidently manufactured out of whole cloth by those who wished to play upon the fears and anxieties of the timid and credulous. Some of these idle rumors have been caught up and published in the Norfolk Day Book after the manner of the New York sensation papers—but as a general thing they are without the remotest foundation in trath. We yesterday had a conversation with a highly intelligent and reliable gentleman from Princes. We yesterday had a conversation with a highly intelligent and reliable gentleman from Princess Anne county, who told us that the matter was not seriously thought of there. He attended the examination of the two men confined there, and states that their examination elicited nothing whatever which had the least tendency to create an alarm. In fact the negroes seem to be more alarmed at the consequences which may befall themselves, than the white population are of a negro insurrection. This is in all probability the actual state of affairs, but the Day Book persistently contradicts it and says:

it and says: Our neighber is misinformed, or is not informed at all, for we learn that there are fifteen negroes in the Princess Anne jail, and the most intense excitement throughout the lower part of the county, growing out of the discovery of certain letters that were found on the persons of one the negroes; and, which our informant thinks, will be sufficient to swing him as high as Harman But the most of to swing him as high as Haman. But the most of of the parties implicated have been arrested and all fear has merged into indignation, and we will await the developments, promising to give our readers all the information possible on the subject.

The Prince of Water in Philadelphia. The Evening Journal of Wednesday says Baron Renfrew and suite reached the city yes "Baron Renfrew and suite reached the city yesterday afternoon, at about half-past four o'clock. Outside the depot quite a large crowd had assembled. Inside no person was admitted but a few gentlemen, who had special invitations. Her Britannic Majesty's Consul, Charles E. K. Kortright, Esq., presented Mayor Henry to the Baron, the Duke of Newcastle and Lord Lyons. Mr. Henry excerted his guests to the carriages, which were handsome open barouches, with well paired horses and full drested drivers. His Lordship, Mayor Henry, the Duke of Newcastle and Lord Lyons occupied the first carriage, while Mr. Kortright, the Earl St. Germans, Major General the Honorable William Bruce, Major Teesdale, Captain C. Grey, Lord Hinchbrook, the Honorable Mr. Elliott, Dr. Ackland, Mr. Englebert and two Mr. Elliott, Dr. Ackland, Mr. Englebert and two attaches of the British Legation immediately followed. As the Prince was driven from the gateway into Broad street, he was greeted with several cheers, although it was evident that whatever enthusiasm existed it was subdued out of respect to the character and wishes of the guest. The windows of the depot, and the roofs of one or two adjoining structures were crowded with ladies, principally the wives or friends of the officers or attaches of the railroad.

The cortege took its way up Broad street to Wal-nut, and down Walnut to Ninth. Along the route to the hotel there were many in the streets who made signs of recognition, and everything was conducted with becoming dignity until the arrival at Ninth and Chestnut streets. The carriage drove up to the Ninth street entrance, and a large crowd soon collected around. On the pavement of the Girard House there was a large number of persons waiting anxiously to see the face of royalty, and believing that H. R. H. would enter the holel at the Chestnut street entrance. They were doomed to disappointment, and it was evident that there were hundreds in the crowd who, long after the Prince had arrived, were still unac-quainted with the fact. The party arrived at the Continental about 5 o'clock, and the Baron retired immediately to his apartments. These are located on the main floor, fronting on Chestnut street, and are the same occupied by Simme Boosen.

A funny circumstance is said to have happened on the arrival of the Prince at the hotel. He is very light upon his feet, and springing from the carriage, he ran into the hall. Here he was met by the superintendent of the hotel, who seized him and informed him that no person was to be admitted there. The Prince paid no attention to the injunction, when the superintendent again told him that he could not enter. At this moment Mayor Henry came to the relief of H. R H. and introduced him to the superintendent. The latter bowed very meekly, begged pardon, and said that the difficulty would have been avoided had the Prince spoken out. The young gentleman replied that that would have spoiled the

A short time after the Prince and his suite had reached their rooms, the City Solicitor, Mr. Lex, called, and was introduced by the Mayor, and Mr. Cuyler, President of Select Council, and Mr. Trego, President of Common Council, shortly after arrived, and were introduced by the Mayor. The Prince entered into conversation about his journey, and stated that he was much gratified by the quiet manner in which he had been received in Philadelphia. The city officials were formally presented to the Duke of Newcastle, Earl of St. Germans, and Lord Lyons. After spending about half an hour, the Mayor and the other city officials withdrew, the Prince and suite each taking leave of the several city officials above mentioned

The Prince, accompanied by Mr. Kortwright, visited the Philadelphia club rooms last evening. The magnificent establishment of Warner, Miskey & Merrill, on Chestnut street, was brilliantly illuminated, and a transparency inscribed "Wel-come Victoria's Son" was displayed.

This morning Mayor Henry, in an open bathen started with the Prince and some of his suite on a visit to Girard College and the Eastern Penitentiary. Hon Wm. B. Reed also accompanied the party. Quite a crowd was gathered around the hotel up to the time of the departure. The Prince had a fine view of the Wide-Awake procession of them passing the Continental Hotel. They recognized the Prince, and greeted him with warm and enthusiastic salutes, which he acknowledged. The grand operatic performance at the Academy of Music at night in honor of the Prince of Wales was a splendid affair. The house was filled to overflowing with the fashion and beauty of the city. During the singing of the national anthem of "God save the Queen" the audience arose en masse. The Prince bowed frequently. The opera of La Traviata was well performed, and the artistes received frequent testimonials of applause from the Prince and the audience. Mrs. Bennett occupied the proscenium box immediately be-neath that of the Prince.

ARRANGEMENTS FOR THE RECEPTION OF THE PRINCE IN NEW YORK .- The New York Express of yesterday says :- On Thursday, the day of the reception of Baron Renfrew, carriages will be at the City Hall at 12 o'clock to take the Mayor and members of the Common Council to Castle Garden, where, on the arrival of the Baron-which will likely be between one and two o'clock-the Mayor will welcome him to New York. The distinguished visitor will review the military on horseback, and then will ride in a splendid new carriage to the City Hall, where he will receive a marching salute from the military.

The arrangement for carriages for the procession is very complete. They will all be furnished by Mr. Edward Van Ranst, the well known livery keeper of Canal street. The new carriage for the Rayon a heaptiful barouche, he ordered for the Baron—a beautiful barouche—he ordered from the factory of J. R. Lawrence, at a cost of $1,000. It is lined with rich purple silk, and is otherwise elegantly trimmed and mounted. It will be drawn by six beautiful black horses, driven by J. N. Hewett. Mr. Van Ranst has made his arrangements for the carriages in accordance with the desire of the Mayor, who has promised to foot the bill, as well as that for the torchlight procession, if the Common Council will not pay the expenses.

After the review in the Park, the Mayor and members of the Common Council will accom-pany the Baron to the Fifth Avenue Hotel. The Ball Tickets.—The committee directing the great ball of Friday has commenced to distribute cards of admission. They are very simple, and distinguished only by the elegance of the engraving. They read as follows: "Admit to the ball in honor of the Prince of Wales, at the Academy of Music, Friday, October 12." It is singular that the gentlemen who superintend the printing of the cards should commit the blunder of thus formally recognizing the princely title of their guest, when it has been openly stated that he comes to America as Lord Renfrew, not as Prince of Wales.

Reception of the Blection News in New York City

We gather the following from the New York Post: "There was a prevailing belief, last even-ing, the result of the presidential election had been virtually decided by Pennsylvania; and, of been virtually decided by Pennsylvania; and, of course, the most intense anxiety pervaded all parties to bear the news This was particularly true of the Republicans. Although confident of success, the bluster of the fusionists, and the recollection of the damaging effect of the defeat four years ago, made them extremely impatient. The headquarters of the various clubs were crowded with men whose earnest faces indicated unmistakably the absorbing interest they feit in the expected returns. pected returns.

The headquarters of the fusionists were less tle or no hope of consoling news, and preferred to stay at home. The boys, however, for they are mostly boys, who have charge of the Bell and mostly boys, who have charge of the Bell and Everett headquarters, 654 Broadway, less wise than their leaders, gathered in considerable force, and made sundry noisy demonstrations.

The returns came in very slowly. The first gleam of light was a dispatch received at the Astor House, announcing a republican majority of 7,000 in old Alleghany county. The republicans who thronged the streets about the hotel and printing offices, greeted this news with deafening shouls.

offices, greeted this news with deafening shouts.
The rooms of the Young Men's Republican Union, at Stuyvesant Institute, were filled to overflowing. Mr. Hansoom was speaking when this news arrived. He communicated it, and immediately the wildest enthusiasm seized the audience, and the people outside joined the chorus.

About this time a Bell and Everett man entered their headquarters, with a gleam of joy upon his countenance, and all gathered around him to hear "Gentlemen," said he, "I have good news from Pennsylvania! [Three cheers] The conservative element has spoken! The Keystone State has gone for Foster! Philadelphia gives 25,000 majority

This announcement was received with deafen ing shouts. The Bell-Everetters appeared to be almost beside themselves with exultation. They pushed down stairs and into the street, and on the sidewalk set up loud cries of victory. "Hurrah for Pennsylvania! Twenty-five thousand majority in Philadelphia!" Their arder, however, was quite outdone by that of the members of the Young Men's Republican Union, directly opposite. The Republicans came out in swarms, outnumbering the fusionists ten to one, and made the welkin ring with shouts for Pennsylvania. "Curtin's elected sure! Old Alleghany seven thousand majority!"

The Bell men bravely tried to keep up their courage; but it was of no avail. Returns now began to come in thick and fast. Philadelphia, instead of 25,000, had only given 3,000. The republicans had expected 5,000 against them there, and the shouting was now on the other side. A company of Wide-Awakes marched down Broadway and around the Park, waking up the sleepers with their jubilant "One! two! three! four! five! hip! hip! Wide-Awake!" and the scene about the Astor House and the printing offices was of the liveliest description. Mr. Dorsheimer was at the Asior House, and briefly addressed the people. He predicted that the result in Pennsylvania will give an impetus to the Republican cause in New York, which insures a majority of 100,000 for Lincoln in this State. The rooms of the Republican Central Campaign

Club,722 Broadway, were densely packed through-out the evening. Henry S. Smith made a telling speech, and when the news of victory came the joy was unbounded. A few men gathered at the Breckinsidge head quarters, and discussed squatter sovereignty. The returns did not appear to please then
